DEDICATION

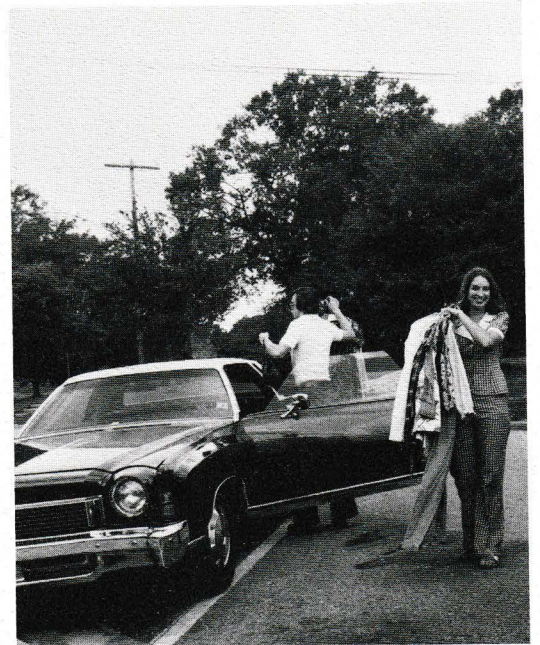

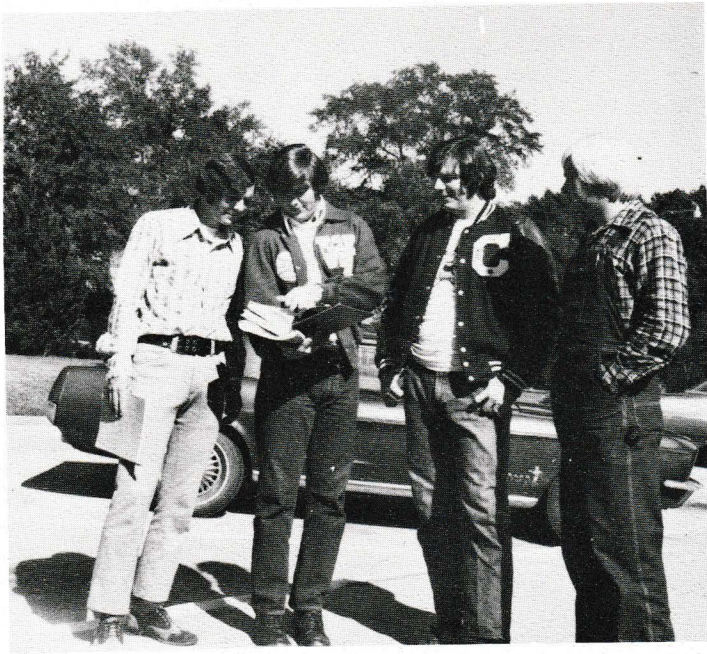

It is hard to put into words what Ed North has meant to Clarke and to each 1974 Clarke College student. A dedicated teacher, a devoted friend, a servant of Christ, he was truly a man that we all looked up to.

PERSONALITIES

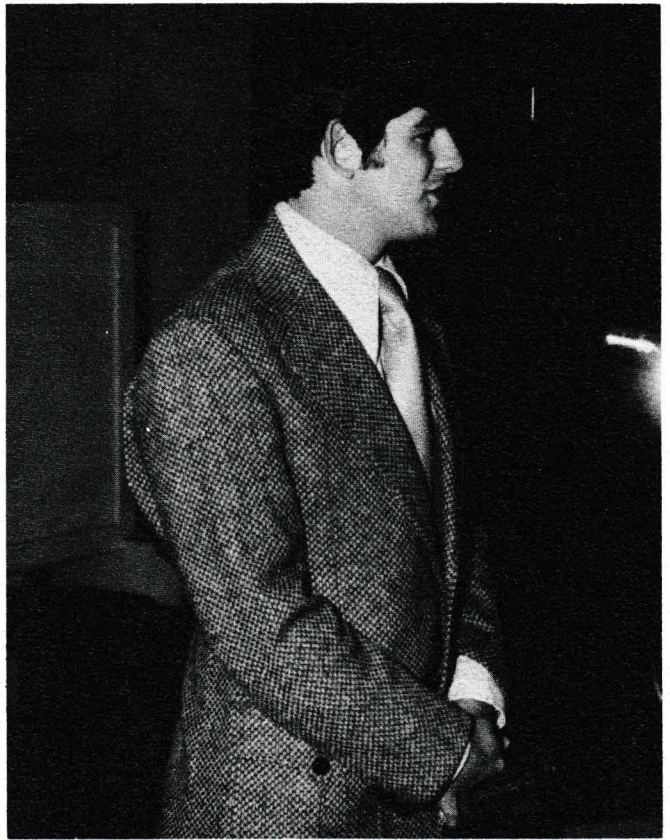

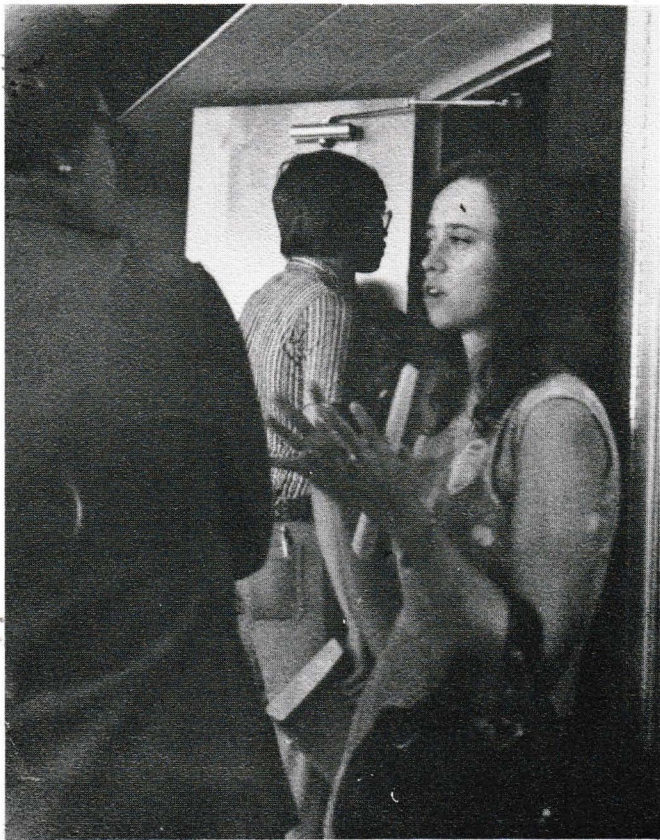

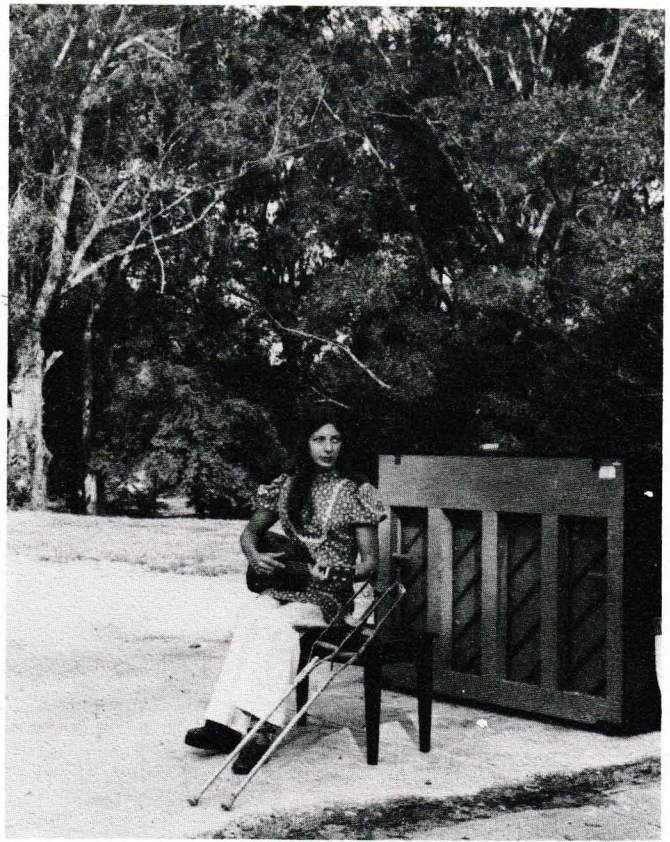

Many people have come to mean many things to us during our time together at CLARKE. In these next few pages, may we each find a trace of that love we've shared in these days together. The people we've grown to love, the places we've grown to know, the things we've done . . . all of this has been a part of OUR LIFE.

President, Clarke College

W. Lowery Compere, President

President's Message

During your brief stay at Clarke

I hope your lives have been enriched,

not only by meeting the challenge to intellectual growth,

but also by experimenting the unique Clarke College spirit—

The heritage received from many generations of those who have gone before us.

Through your commendable response to the opportunities offered you here,

you have made a significant contribution to the future of the College.

And to those who through the years will come this way

you are handing down

a richer heritage.

Secretary of Academic Victor R. Vaughn
Academic Dean

Nothing can be more clearly seen today than the desperate need for men and women of intelligence, scope, and understanding of other people. Our society needs adults who are concerned about this rapidly changing world order and who wish to become agents of a creative change.

The time has never been more opportune for the expression of Christian character and mission in every walk of life. We have seen numerous individuals at Clarke College filling thankful for the opportunity of being a part of a service-centered school which clings to the concept that each individual is unique—that none is perfect, but that each should be respected not only for what he is but also for what he is trying to become.
